NAVIGATION DATA

The IT system and software processes operate for the correct functioning of the website www.lagrangevda.com. During their activities, the IT system and the software processes acquire some personal data, which transmission is implicit in the use of Internet communication protocols. By their nature, these kinds of data are not collected to group and identify users, but they may permit the identification through the elaboration and association with the data kept by the Controller and third parties.

The IP addresses, the name of Computer domain where users have access, URI (Uniform Resource Identifier) of time and type of request, the methods employed to present the request to the server, the dimension of files received in response, the number code relevant the status of the response (successful conclusion, error...) and other operating system and user's IT environment parameters are included in the navigation data category.

The collected data are unsigned, and they are used only for anonymous statistic studies related to the use of the website and in order to control its correct operation. After the processing, these data are immediately deleted. They can even be used for control and ascertainment of legal responsibility in case of computer crime against this website.

COMMUNICATION TO THIRD PARTIES AND RECIPIENT CATEGORIES

Your data may be transmitted to third parties with the exclusive purpose as stated in the contract. Additional processing undertaken by third parties will be exposed to your free, facultative, evident and voluntary consent. Your refusal to communicate your data to third parties for aims not foreseen in the contract doesn't entail the annulment of the contract.

PRIVACY POLICY RENEWAL

If the data processing exceeds the fixed time limits, the Controller will send a new privacy policy. The renewed document will specify the type of processed data and the information about which are the involved third parties in the data processing.
